Schooner to Be Repaired. The big four-masted schooner Augustus

Welt, which was abandoned at sea about two weeks ago and was picked up by a crew from lightship No. 72 on the Cape Lookout station and taken into Cape Lookout cove N. C., will be restored to active service. A dispatch from Beaufort, N. C., states that the water in the hole of the Welt has been lowered by the pumps and that the vessel will be taken to Savannah by the Norfolk tug McCauley to be repaired. The Welt has made several visits to this port and Alex-andria with cargoes of ice and phosphate rock aboard. The schooner John L. Nicholson was sold recently to the Chile Commercial

Company of Punta Arenas, Straits of Magellan, and will be taken to Punta Arenas and turned over to her new owners. The vessel, it is stated, is to be used in the coasting trade of South America on both the Atlantic and Paific coasts.

Philadelphia, was notified by Lieut, Peck that Herman had attempted suicide, and that he was in the hospital. The young man has been employed as a clerk in the freight office of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and he recently returned from Seaford, where he went to spend the Christmas holiday with his relatives.

The report of a pistol shot in the room attracted the attention of other persons in the house this morning about 9 o'clock, and when they reached the room they found Tull in bed. and Dr. Chester Pyles was summoned to the house to attend him. He found that the wound was a serious one, and recommended that he be removed to the hospital. Lieut. Peck was informed by the police of the fifth precinct that Tull stated several days ago he would commit suicide, but he refused to tell this morning why he had commit-ted the rash act, saying he was in too much pain to do any talking. Friends of the young man said today that the shooting was an accident. They claim he was cleaning the weapon while in bed. and that it was accidentally discharged. An operation was performed upon the wounded man at the hospital, and the surgeons think he will recover.

CRATER IN DESERT.

Prof. Merrill's Study of Its Origin and Report.

A grant from the Smithsonian Institution recently enabled Prof. George P. Merrill of the United States National Museum to study the geologic origin of a peculiar, large crater-form depression in the desert near Canyon Diablo. Ariz. It is nearly three-quarters of a mile across and about six hundred feet deep. Since it was brought to the notice of men of science this hole has caused much discussion, some believing it to be an extinct volcano and others to be the record of the impact of a huge meteor which struck the earth centuries ago.

In speaking of his conclusions Prof.
Merrill leans toward the meteor theory.
"The creater," he states, "could not have been formed by any volcanic action, for all the phenomena have a superficial nature. Some three hundred feet of over-lying limestone and five hundred feet of sandstone have been thoroughly shattered sandstone have been thoroughly shattered as though by some powerful blow, and the quartz particles in the sandstone in part fused, indicating a very high degree of heat. Underlying sandstone, however, is entirely unchanged. This, of course, absolutely precludes the formation of a crater by any deep-seated agency, and I have been forced to consider an origin by have been forced to consider an origin by impact of a stellar body.

"An exhaustive study of known meteoric falls shows that there is no record of any fall comparable with this, the largest known meteorites, such as that brought by Commander Peary from Cape York, Greenland, or the enormous irons from Oregon, having fallen with so little force as to scarcely bury themselves. The nearest approach to the Canyon Diablo occurrence happened at Knyahinya, Hungary, in 1866, when a 660-pound stone penetrated the ground to a depth of eleven feet.

"No meteoric mass of sufficient size to have made this enormous crater has been brought to light, but there still remains the possibility of its having become en-tirely dissipated through the heat developed by its impact while traveling at speed of many miles a second."

In his report on the investigation, now in press, Prof. Merrill goes very thoroughly into details. He has secured many specimens of the meteoric irons and their associations from the locality, which are now on exhibition in the National Mu-
